Kaj Björkqvist

Professor of Developmental Psychology
Åbo Akademi University, Vasa, Finland

He has lead the PEACE programme at Åbo Akademi University since 2012. His research is focused mostly on human aggression (including school and workplace bullying), conflict resolution, sex differences in aggression, media psychology, worldview, and cross-cultural studies. He is best known for his research on indirect aggression. He has published 13 books and more than 100 scientific articles. Besides in English, his work has also been published in Japanese, German, Italian, Finnish, and Swedish. Of his books, those probably best known to the international public are "Of Mice and Women: Aspects of Female Aggression", by Björkqvist & Niemelä, published in 1994 by Academic Press, and "Cultural Variation in Conflict Resolution: Alternatives to Violence", by Fry & Björkqvist, published in 1997 by Lawrence Erlbaum. He has also published a well-received book on chess, "Romantic D-openings: An Opening Repertoire for White", published 2003 by Castor & Pollux. He was awarded the White Rose of Finland in 2016.

Citations, 2017 (Research Gate): 6113
Kaj Björkqvist

LIST OF PUBLICATIONS

Contents
I Books
II Articles in international peer reviewed journals
III Short reports in international peer reviewed journals
IV Book chapters
V Conference presentations

I. Books
A total of 13 books and monographs. A selection:

II. Articles in International Peer Reviewed Journals

III. Short Reports in International Peer Reviewed Journals

1993 Haddas, K., Norrlund, L., & Björkqvist, K. (1993). Those were the days ... Abuse and neglect during childhood and their consequences. Aggressive Behavior, 19, 54.

IV. Book Chapters

V. Conference Presentations

Ndoromo, O., Österman, K., Björkqvist, K. (2016). Domestic violence as a risk factor for becoming a street child in post war South Sudan. The XXth World Congress of The World Federation for Mental Health, Cairo, Egypt, October 16–19.

Björkqvist, K., Österman, K., & Söderberg, P. (2015). Exposure to childhood physical punishment as a predictor of victimization to bullying and peer aggression at school. The XXth World Congress of The World Federation for Mental Health, Cairo, Egypt, October 16–19.

2000 Björkqvist, K. (2000). Sex differences in aggression in different cultures. What we know so far. XV Colloquium on the Brain and Aggression, July 7–9, Miraflures, Spain.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Author(s)</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Conference/Location</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1992</td>
<td>Haddas, K., Norrlund, L., &amp; Björkqvist, K.</td>
<td>Those were the days... Abuse and neglect during childhood and its consequences.</td>
<td>X World Meeting of ISRA, September 6–11, Siena, Italy.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1990</td>
<td>Björkqvist, K. Lagerspetz, K. M. J., &amp; Kaukiainen, A.</td>
<td>The development of direct and indirect aggressive strategies: Gender differences during ages 8, 11, 15, and 18.</td>
<td>IX Biennial ISRA Meeting, June 12–17, Banff, Alberta, Canada.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

