

Health Campus Turku is launching a mentor programme for the research groups - send your application now!

Health Campus Turku is launching a mentor programme for the research groups. The programme will start in autumn 2021 and it is directed to all the research groups in the Health Campus partner organisations, who feel that they would benefit from expert support and sparring in order to develop.

The research group can apply for the mentor programme, if they need support in refreshing their ideas, in networking, in increasing their exposure, developing their communication skills or promoting cooperation with companies.

The research group will commit to work towards the jointly set goals and will receive support from the Health Campus experts along the way. Two research groups will be chosen for the programme in this application round.

The Health Campus mentors will offer their advice and support for the research group for one year starting from autumn 2021.

Applications should be submitted by 10.6.2021.

Instructions for applications:

Write an informal motivation letter (1-2 pages) with a compact presentation of your research group. Describe in your letter how the research group is connected to Health Campus Turku.

Justify how the group would benefit from the Health Campus mentor programme.

Describe the development needs for your research group:

- What are the specific development needs for your group?
- What are the desired outcomes from the mentor programme participation?
- Present concrete development goals
- Request mentors from specific fields that you would see most useful for your team
