

Greetings from your tutors

RAHAT ARA RISTI

A big congratulations on signing up for a master's degree, where we will happily discuss exclusion while trying not to feel excluded by Moodle, course links, or Finnish weather.

What I personally enjoy about studying and being in this environment is how easy it becomes to learn from others. People are approachable, discussions are open, and you quickly realize that everyone is figuring things out together. I'm from Bangladesh, and I genuinely enjoy meeting new people and different cultures. I also like helping others feel a bit more comfortable when everything feels new and slightly confusing.

In my studies, I have especially enjoyed engaging with lived experiences and broad societal issues within an international community of students, where different viewpoints are part of every class.

What has been best about studying SoEx are the rich discussions and learning how familiar issues are contested and challenged in an environment where each individual's voice is welcome.

I hope to be of help with any questions you might have in navigating the new experiences!

We are excited to meet you all soon and to collectively get lost on campus while learning about each other!
